Where it all began...

First launched in 2010, the Dryrobe® Advance is the original weather-proof changing robe. Since then, there have been plenty of imitators, but none come close to its quality or performance.

Designed and developed by surfer Gideon Bright, no expense is spared in the construction of Dryrobe® changing robes. Whilst the concept of the garment hasn't changed since its inception over a decade ago, the quality of materials and the design has continuously evolved, with performance and durability always at its core.

The Dryrobe® product range has expanded over the years to include a wide range of apparel that's designed with the same ethos of getting people active outside, whatever the weather.

Sustainability at our core.

At Dryrobe®, we're dedicated to doing everything we can to create a sustainable future by making a positive difference and leaving a lighter footprint.

Every Dryrobe® product we've created has been built on the idea of 'buying less, buying better'. Due to our durable fabrics, Dryrobe® products are designed to last and therefore create less waste.

B Corp™

We are proud to be a Certified B Corp™. This means that our business practices are recognised for promoting positive environmental and social change.

Materials

We make our products using certified recycled materials, including recycled nylon and polyester, where possible. Our towel range is made from 100% organic cotton, and our waterproof fabrics are finished with a PFC-free DWR.

Carbon Footprint

We're aware that our manufacturing and distribution processes release greenhouse gases, and we're constantly working to limit our impact.

Trusted supply chain

We choose to work with trusted suppliers focusing on positive, long-term relationships. All of our supplier factories maintain SMETA approval or are BSCI audited.

Community support

We founded the Dryrobe® Warmth Project to support charities and non-profits that share our values of protecting the environment and promoting wellbeing through outdoor activity.

Sustainability is a continual journey, and we are proud to continue growing our business in a way that benefits both people and our planet.

Team Dryrobe®

We work with a team of incredible individuals who inspire us with their ability to push the limits of what is possible.

Changing lives. Making waves.

Through the Dryrobe® Warmth Project, each product sold becomes a force for good, empowering positive change in people's lives and our environment.

We're proud to support charities and non-profit organisations that share our values of promoting wellbeing through outdoor activity and protecting the environment.

The Warmth Project was created to make a meaningful change, helping to get more people outdoors, in the water, and reaping the benefits of nature. It grew from the many, many people who got in touch to tell us how a Dryrobe® had made a real impact in someone's life.

Some of the truly incredible organisations we support include The Wave Project, Surfers Not Street Children, A Walk On Water, Operation Surf, The Calvert Trust, Green Kayak and many, many more.

We are committed to donating at least 1% of our revenue towards changing lives.

Summer 2026

Our Summer Collection is a vibrant tribute to coastal living, with a colour palette inspired by the meeting point of coast, ocean, and sky.

While this collection introduces new and exciting colours, it also includes our popular core collection, ensuring our trade partners can offer a complete and compelling range.

The new Dryrobe® Advance colours, in particular, draw inspiration from the batik prints of Indonesian surfing culture and the rugged beauty of the UK coastline.

The new Full-Zip Towel Robe colours are a premium refresh, reflecting the popular demand for this style. A new dark green complements the success of the autumnal dark green Dryrobe® Advance colour, while a burnt orange captures the warmth of the summer sun.

Our new Organic Towel Robes maintain the same great quality as before, but feature new pockets and hood pull cords, with more subtle branding for a clean, modern look. The colours are bright and popular, perfect for the summer season ahead.
